

Tips for decorating with plants

Indoor plants can be grouped together to form small gardens or distributed throughout the house or workplace, the important thing is to provide them with adequate light, watering and fertilizer, nature will do the rest and provide the best and most spectacular decorations.

The best thing is to find plants that combine with the style of the chosen decoration, so that they create a sense of continuity with the rest of the decorative elements

BE CAREFUL WITH EXCESSIVELY LARGE PLANTS AND WITH A LOT OF FOLIAGE. YOU HAVE TO MAINTAIN A BALANCE IN THE INTERIOR DESIGN

For example, you can use plants that give a greater feeling of spaciousness to a small apartment or, conversely, that create a warmer atmosphere in a large home.

By joining the plants with decorative pots, surprising and low-budget effects can be achieved, but plants can also be placed on other types of supports such as hanging baskets or pedestals, depending on the effect we want to achieve. Any room can be decorated in this way, from the living room to the bathrooms, through the kitchen or the bedrooms, the combinations are endless.

- We must choose plants knowing in advance the needs of light and temperature.
- We must recognize the space we have and what the growth of the plant will be (Remember that radiators and currents have a negative influence).
- An outdoor plant can never survive inside a home.
- Always choose a good planter that you will also have on the market with excellent designs and colors. (it is not worth having a beautiful plant in a horrible pot)

Ceramic pots and pots in classic decoration always combine well.

Designer glass or ceramic planters fit perfectly in a modern decor.

The flowerpots in rustic decoration combine perfectly (you can even place wicker baskets).

For any style of decoration, it is appropriate to use flower pots in groups of two or three, whether they are the same or of different sizes.

- Plants are an excellent zone delimiter; To mark the dining room or living room area, an office in the dining room, or the beginning of a staircase.
- They create focal points. A nice plant with adequate dimensions will always attract attention.

- In the kitchen, aromatic plants are used that, in addition, some types, can be used for cooking.
- Recommended plants with personality to place them in centerpieces, in a bathroom without abuse or in the kitchen.
- They are excellent for high ceilings. The perfect example is bamboo, which has stems that can reach a considerable height. Also the Hydra or its variants that we can encourage to climb the walls.
